

FIRM PROFILE

Founded in 2001, Gunda Corporation is a Houston-based consulting firm with offices in Houston, Austin and Montgomery County. We provide planning, design, program management and construction management in all aspects of civil, traffic and transportation engineering, and program and construction management, public works and municipal services.

We strive to provide creative and dependable engineering services that are functional, constructible, low maintenance and reliable. For every project, we take into consideration the demand, current systems, governmental regulations and standards, cost, budget and schedule all in an effort to meet the needs of the client. We value the importance of the relationships we build with clients, and we are fully committed to contributing our time and services to maintain excellent levels of client satisfaction.

Our highly-qualified staff of experts includes certified land planners, transportation planners, licensed professional engineers, professional traffic operations engineers (PTOE), LEED certified professionals, certified floodplain managers (CFM), and construction managers and inspectors who are eager to accomplish our clients' goals and needs. Our skilled staff utilizes sophisticated tools, resources and methods, to assure that we provide you with consistent results.
